

Intergenerational Family Services in Pediatric Settings: A Snapshot of a Research Portfolio

Date:

Mar 2018

Download Material

There is robust, increasing evidence that parental health directly impacts the health of their children. The PolicyLab Intergenerational Family Services research portfolio is developing, implementing and sustaining programs to provide more intergenerational family services, or family-based services, during pediatric visits with the hope of improving the health and well-being of both parents and children.

Authors:

Wilson L, Bowden C, Matone M, Rubin D

Related Content

Supporting Mothers with Mental Illness: Postpartum Mental Health Service Linkage as a Matter of Public Health and Child Welfare Policy

Parental depressive symptoms and child school attendance and ED use: an analysis of the National Health Interview Survey

Child Adult Relationship Enhancement in Primary Care: A randomized trial of a parent training for child behavior problems