

Screening for Autism When the Screener Is Imperfect

Date:

Tuesday, Oct 01, 2019

PolicyLab researcher Kate Wallis, MD, MPH, wrote a guest blog post on her study, which found that the most widely used autism screening tool is less accurate than previously shown, but still a valuable tool for early detection.

Source:

MedPage Today Visit Link