

PolicyLab Kicks Off Our Back to School Blog Post Series

Date:

Friday, August 20, 2021

PolicyLab recently launched our annual Back to School blog post series. This year, our experts discuss the need to support the health and well-being of youth as they return to school, while drawing on more than a year of monitoring COVID-19 developments.

See below for a list of the latest blog posts in the series and stay tuned to our blog for additional posts in the coming weeks:

- Lessons Learned From a Year of School Surveillance
- New Challenges Await College Students Ahead of an Uncertain Academic Year. How Can We Support Them?
- Bright Spots to Support Back-to-School Health During COVID-19
- Innovative Strategies for a Successful Return to Campus in a Changing COVID-19 Landscape

You can also follow our hashtag #PolicyLabGoesBacktoSchool on Twitter for the latest blog posts and updates!

As families continue to face unique pandemic-related challenges as children head back to school, visit our revised guidance for in-person K-12 education for PolicyLab's recommendations for how schools and families might navigate the upcoming school year.