Children's Hospital of Philadelphia PolicyLab

The Menstrual Health Equity Initiative - Access to Menstrual Products for People Experiencing Homelessness

Visit Article

Adolescents experiencing homelessness are particularly susceptible to period poverty (the inability to consistently access menstrual hygiene products), which negatively affects their education.

Journal:

The New England Journal of Medicine
Authors: Sarah Revak, Shelby Davies