

Refugee Health in the U.S.: Identifying Prevalence of Chronic Disease and Uninsurance

Download Material

This Research at a Glance brief presents findings from a recent study of refugee health, including findings that refugees are more likely to have worse health status, chronic disease, disabling pain, and higher rates of uninsurance than other immigrants.

Authors:

Yun K, Fuentes-Afflick E, Desai MM

Topics

Equitable Access to Services