Implementing the ACA-Obamacare: Multi-Stakeholder Perspectives

This course will examine the implementation of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act across the country through the eyes of different stakeholders, including consumers, clinicians, employers, payers, and government agencies. The course will begin with an overview of what the ACA was trying to achieve and will examine the implementation challenges the country now faces.

Intended for any graduate student with an interest in health policy; no prerequisites required. Undergraduate students must be in their senior year, in good academic standing (3.0 GPA or higher) and will need permission to take the course from course instructors.

Course details:

Dates: August 28 - December 11
Time: Thursday, 4pm - 7pm
Course number: PUBH 580-001
Course title in registration system: Implementing the ACA
